

Newsletter Summer 2009

Summer is officially here starting with a fantastic Solstice and a great 4th of July! We celebrated the birth of a granddaughter, Olivia Marie, in May and our grandson turned one in June, so it has been a real family time for us! Hope you all are enjoying the summer, staying cool (or trying) and having fun!

This past week, we took our second field trip of the year to my supplier's and what a bunch of goodies he had! The shipment from Pakistan most impressed me. It is absolutely amazing variety and new quartz of almost every different description! These are all from the northern areas, particularly Peshawar, and the energies are electric in every regard. It took us two trips to get everything back to Oak Ridge and I will be sorting out for some period of time ... plus I get lost in the energies of each as I unpack! So look for loads of newbies from Pakistan!

In addition to the Pakistani quartz, there was another large shipment of "Moz" with size ranges from pocket to altar. I was amazed at the variety here too as some are more golden, others are more smoky and of course everything in between. Interestingly, this quartz comes from an area known for their pegmatites as well and a few even have tourmalines and albite! My supplier and

I talked about authenticity of the Moz since a number of sellers on eBay are selling material from Madagascar and other locations as Mozambique. It saddens me to know that there are these kind of people in the community. The Moz may not be the prettiest crystals on the shelf, but their energetic signature is unmistakable. So if you are wondering if one is genuine or not, trust your instincts and do not be afraid to ask the seller.

In working with these new finds of Mozambique Lemurians, I grow more and more impressed by the energies and uniqueness of these most mysterious, and yet personal, of the known Lemurian crystals. These were seeded in ancient times and as such, often bear many scars from their extensive time within the Earth, as well as more recent dings from extraction. As said in previous newsletters, these valiant warriors and warrioresses possess such Spirit, that even split in half, they exude intense energy. The Mozambiques were well chosen by the Lemurians for this reason. Lesser crystals would not be able to convey the right messages, and of all the Lemurians, these are the most important. Because they are personal, they almost seem pre-encoded with their Keeper's special energies. I have also said in my write-ups that I honor the special bond the crystal will have with his or her Keeper, so do not go too deeply in reading them ... well I understand better now, that those who gravitate towards the Mozambiques have Lemurian blood-lines and in many cases, these people are being reunited (on a soul level) with a dear, old friend. My own is dinged, nicked and missing a terminal face (now healed), but she is so beloved to me and is the one whose role it is to welcome newcomers to the working group. For me, she holds the Old History, the information from the earliest days on Lemurian when the peoples began to settle there and build their magnificent civilization.

Newsletter Summer 2009

If your Moz is not opening, it may be simply that you don't have the key yet. Patience is critical as this process may take years. And sometimes, the crystal just is not for you ... and so I make this offer to all of my customers - if your Moz is not resonating for whatever reason, please return him or her for a refund or another Moz who does resonate. With the right Moz, your role together will become both clear and totally unique to you both and the energy between you will be amazing!

Enjoy the summer, stay cool and celebrate these wondrous days!

Blessings -

Jan